Call for Papers

The 13th Linguistic Landscape Workshop
7–9 September 2022
Universität Hamburg, Germany
Website: uhh.de/slm-ll13

The annual Linguistic Landscape Workshop is the leading international meeting for interdisciplinary research on language in public space. Previous editions have been held in Gothenburg (online 2021), Bangkok (2019), Bern (2018), Liverpool (2017), Luxembourg (2016), Berkeley (2015), and elsewhere.

The 13th Linguistic Landscape Workshop (LL13) will take place on 7–9 September 2022 at Universität Hamburg, Germany. We currently envisage an on-site event in Hamburg. Streaming of keynotes and selected sessions is considered, subject to technical feasibility.

Conference theme: "Semiotic landscapes in educational spaces"

This year's Workshop will focus on interdisciplinary connections between linguistic landscape studies, language and literacy learning, and language teacher education. It includes research on the practices and discourses surrounding the semiotic landscape of educational spaces (schoolscapes) and on the linguistic/semiotic landscape as a resource for language and literacy learning and teaching. As always, papers from the entire range of linguistic landscape studies are also welcome.

Keynotes (in alphabetical order):

David Malinowski, San Jose State University, USA
Elana Shohamy, Tel Aviv University, Israel
Tamás Péter Szabó, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Evelyn Ziegler, Universität Duisburg-Essen, Germany

Abstract submission:

Abstracts for single papers and panel sessions are invited.

- Single papers: Each paper is given a 30-minute slot incl. discussion (20+10). Please submit an abstract of max. 300 words. Deadline: 1 March 2022.

- Panel sessions: We invite a limited number of competitively selected panels, preferably focusing on the conference theme. Panel sessions will comprise either three or six 30-minute slots, incl. discussion. Please submit an outline of your panel topic and aims (max. 500 words) as well as titles and short abstracts (max. 150 words) of all included papers. Deadline: 31 January 2022.

- All submissions are managed on ConfTool: https://www.conftool.pro/ll13-2022/

Important dates:

- Deadline for panel proposals: 31 January 2022
- Notifications of panel acceptance: 20 February 2022
- Deadline for abstract submission: 1 March 2022
- Notifications of abstract acceptance: 15 April 2022
- Registration: Starting May 2022

Contact:
LinguisticLandscape13.slm@uni-hamburg.de

On behalf of the local Organising Committee

Jannis Androutsopoulos
Universität Hamburg & MultiLing, University of Oslo

Universität Hamburg
DER FORSCHUNG | DER LEHRE | DER BILDUNG

MultiLing